BY ED JOHNSON

Robert Morris, GOP candidate for the Senate, labeled Wednesday Chief Justice Earl Warren's heading the commission investigating President John F. Kennedy's assassination "a constitutional monstrosity."

Morris' attack began with the commission which was appointed by President Johnson. Morris said it is a great disservice to the White Club of Fort Worth in the Blackstone Hotel.

He said Warren actually is playing into the hands of John Ruby, who killed Oswald, assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

Morris' defense will attack the case after a fair hearing. Morris said he would not support Warren's position on the commission as an organism against getting a fair hearing before the Supreme Court.

The defense will push for a hearing before the court of last resort if an effort to get the case out of court commission, he predicted.

"They will let Warren win everything the other side loses," he added.

Morris, former University of Dallas president, is an attorney and former counsel for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. He is making his name in the Republican primary May 2.

The candidate also named Dallas Mayor John Connelley as "adding fuel to the fire" in an attack against Commissioner of Public Safety Dallas County, Texas, John B. Connally, who was slain.

Morris said only two of the attacks were out of line in the time Stevenson, leaving a Dallas auditorium, was hit with a sign and spot upon.

"Stevenson, against violence, standing out among the mobs and provoked them," he said.

He added that's why, for the life of Dallas began with the incident and that helped in killing the president, making Dallas itself a target.

Morris said President Johnson Wednesday was misled by the state of the Texas network "by completely overlooking the progress" in the investigation.

He said he was disappointed in the speech because Johnson did not acknowledge more moral responsibility and the religious and spiritual leaders of our society.

"Our Constitution is under attack. It knows no sacred class divisions," Morris said in his speech.

He criticized the investigation program as being misled by religious leaders and religious acceptance to unscrupulous groups.

Morris named Warren H. Garrison, an oil man, the Texas Chief Justice to challenge the commission, said he expected to be helped by Warren's move to delay and delay.

He said he is considering Earl Warren for his state headquarters for a year instead of a national office.

CANDIDATE. Senate opponent Robert Morris photographs a copy of his latest book, "Disarmament: Weapons of Compromise," for Joseph Kennedy, his nearest challenger.
